THE THIRTEENTH SUNDAY OF THE YEAR C

Today is the thirteenth Sunday of ordinary time. The readings are about God’s call and man’s commitment in answer to that call. They ask for total commitment in total freedom with the spirit of patient love, saying an unconditional “Yes” to Jesus and to the Christian life as a true disciple of Christ.

In the first reading, the call of Elisha and his response was a dramatic event. Elisha demonstrated a total commitment to his call. In the second reading, from Paul's Letter to the Galatians, reinforces the commitment message of the first reading and the Responsorial Psalm

The gospel brings us to the apogee of this total commitment to the Lord. Christ knew and saw the weakness of the young men who wished to follow him. He knew their struggles, as well as their distractions. Like some of us, they had “genuine intentions and excuses”. They wanted to follow Christ, yet they were not ready to make the necessary sacrifice.

The rest of today's reading is about the radical demands of discipleship. The three people who volunteer to become disciples on this journey show that they do not understand the demands Jesus will make of them. So, seeing their predicament, Christ addressed them: “No one who sets a hand to the plow and looks to what was left behind is fit for the kingdom of God.” “Looking back” in this context has grave consequences for our Christian life and journey.

So, this Sunday, the church calls us to be fully committed to Christ. Like Elisha, we must “slaughter all the forces, obstacles, and vices such as selfishness, materialism, immorality, and old bad habits. These make it hard for us to be committed to Christ. If we succeed in sacrificing them, we can confidently say: “O Lord, you are my portion and cup.” Then, the Lord will show us the part of life.
